The action of my game is to move the turtle called chicken to make an art. A challenge we faced is that we couldn’t make the art. However we kept going and finished it. Another challenge we faced is that we wanted to make a chicken but couldn’t as it wasn’t possible. We used communication skills to work in a group. We also used thinking skills by understanding the code. I learned how to use git hub for the first time. In the future we can make it a more complex game.
